

A model helps only if it is both accurate AND makes different errors

Only the 3D simplicial models sit in the upper-left quadrant — accurate and complementary — and only they improve the combination. This rule was stated before the 3.0/4.0 Å runs and correctly predicted that they would help.