

The blend beats both endpoints

An interior maximum can only arise from complementary information; identical information interpolates monotonically.